Learning Cohort

Apply for our Fall 2019 Learning Cohort!

This is a 5-month long continuing education course focused on helping providers increase their knowledge, awareness, and skills around culturally responsive practices in Latinx mental health.

The course also offers wonderful opportunities for building relationships with providers across the state in order to help reduce isolation and increase support in the important work you are doing.

- * All activities will be offered at no cost for participants
- * A maximum $500 completion award will be provided to participants who complete all course requirements
- * 8.5 NBCC credit hours to be awarded for participation

Here's what past Learning Cohort participants have said about this experience:

"I am coming out of this cohort experience with significantly greater knowledge of mental health care models for working with Latinx communities, more personal connections, a jump start in my career, and deep gratitude for this incredible opportunity."

"I have a new appreciation for cultural humility and have changed how I view what is needed when serving the Latino population."
